Buddhist Logic and Epistemology: Studies in the Buddhist Analysis of Inference and Language (Studies of Classical India) From Springer

For the first time in recent history, seventeen scholars from all over the world (India, Japan, Europe, the United Kingdom, Canada and the United States) collaborated here to produce a volume containing an in-depth study of Buddhist logical theory in the background of Buddhist epistemology. The Tibetan tradition identifies this important chapter in the history of Buddhist philosophy as the pramāṇa school. It owes its origin to the writings of the great Buddhist master, Dharmakīrti (circa A. D. 480-540), whose influence was to spread far beyond India, as well as to his celebrated interpreter of seventh century A. D. , Dharmakīrti, whose texts presented the standard version of the school for the later Buddhist and non Buddhist authors for a long time. The history of Buddhist and Indian logical and epistemological theories constitutes an interesting study not only for the Buddhist scholars but also for philosophers as well as historians of philosophy in general. Each author of this anthology combines historical and philological scholarship with philosophical acumen and linguistic insight. Each of them uses original textual (Tibetan or Sanskrit) material to resolve logical issues and philosophical questions. Attention has been focused upon two crucial philosophical concepts: trairūpya (the "triple" character of evidence) and apoha (meaning as "exclusion"). Broadly the issues are concerned with the problems of inductive logic and the problem of meaning and universals.
