Princesses Can Be Pirates Too! By Christi Zellerhoff

Who says girls can't play boys' make-believe games too? "No Girls Allowed," will simply NOT do for this little Princess! Princesses Can Be Pirates Too! proves that just because a girl is wearing a gold crown and a pink fluffy dress doesn't mean she can't act like a pirate just as good as any boy. Yes- even a refined and dainty princess can become a rough and tumble pirate! This is the playful and empowering premise of Princesses Can Be Pirates Too! "A princess can do what a pirate can too; she can captain a ship and take charge of the crew"... "Should unfriendly pirates try climbing aboard, she can fend off the foes with a swoosh of her sword!" are just a few of the things this feisty princess can do in this humorous interpretation and approach to a pirate's life with a princess' sense of style.

About the Author

Christi Zellerhoff - Author A Seattle native, Christi received both Bachelor and Masters Degrees from the University of Washington's School of Speech Communication. She credits motherhood for her unexpected career change from an Executive Management Consultant to an author of children's books. Christi draws inspiration for her book ideas from several typical parenting routines; watching her children play or argue, overhearing them sing or talk while driving in the car, and listening to all the amazing ideas, concerns, & questions that come up at bedtime. "Princesses Can Be Pirates Too!" is her first children's book, but her kids have inspired many more literary surprises already in the works! Christi resides in Seattle with her husband Mark and two children, Henry and Claire. To learn more about Christi please visit her blog:

<http://www.christizellerhoff.com/> Amy Davis – Illustrator Amy grew up in the Pacific Northwest. As a child, she loved to doodle and illustrate her own short stories to pass the rainy Washington days. She was inspired by the works of Bill Peet and Richard Scarry. Amy attended the University of Washington to study graphic design and went on to study drawing, painting, and illustration at the School of Visual Concepts in Seattle. For years Amy has worked on a variety of art projects from murals to furniture to cards. Her whimsical style compliments children's literature and she is thrilled to finally be illustrating her first children's book, "Princesses Can Be Pirates Too!" written by Christi Zellerhoff. Amy currently lives in Everett, Washington and has been married to her high school sweetheart for 16 years. They have been blessed with a 12 year old daughter and 9 year old son who are her biggest fans. To learn more about Amy Davis please visit her blog: <http://creativecockamamy.com>
